Veterans of the World War, their auxiliaries, and friends joined this morning in recalling the signing of the Armistice 17 years ago, which ended the greatest war that civilization has ever known. With thinning ranks, they paraded through the business section of the city to the Carnegie Auditorium, for services commemorating the event.

The parade paused for a few minutes at the public square, where a brief ceremony was carried out at

Anniversary Of End Of World War Finds World Peace Unstable

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—This 17th anniversary of the war to end all wars today found world peace more unstable than at any time since the guns ceased firing on the western front.

It found one of Europe's big powers already at war, with the old world's most renowned modern dictator engaged in a campaign of deliberate conquest on the continent of Africa.

It found Great Britain seeking to re-establish her might as a dominant power in world affairs, with the great British navy massed in

The S. S. New York and the freighter Chicago Maru, rushing to the scene, stood by prepared to take off the crew in case the vessel started to break up.

Details of the crash were not immediately available but rough seas and a thick curtain of rain prevailing in that vicinity were believed contributing causes.

The Silver Hazel, of British registry, was enroute to Manila from Portland, Ore.

SENATOR REFLECTS
U. S. ATTITUDE

A member of the League of Nations and in contempt of its decisions, it is proceeding to conquer with overwhelming military power and thru the destruction of life and property a weak and helpless people.

These 52 governments believe in a league to enforce peace. To this extent they believe in a super-government. We do not support this league. Those governments who do advocate and support this league must enforce the covenants against the strong as well as the weak, or they must admit its impotency or their own insincerity.

To Remain At Peace.

We of the United States took upon this disastrous situation with the deepest sadness. Our sympathy goes out to weak, suffering and helpless people everywhere. We have suffered directly from foreign wars, and we may suffer indirectly again.

We will not, however, again suffer directly from a foreign war not of our own making.

We can not bring peace to the rest of the world, but we can on this Armistice Day dedicate our government to the insurance of our peace at home, the perpetuation of our liberties and our institutions, and the protection of the rights of our citizens everywhere.

BIRTHDAY OF KING

clashes, Mussolini alluded to the capture of Adowa and Makale.

"More Yet To Come."

"In one month alone, two of the old accounts have been settled.

"More are yet to come."

Il Duce's promise that the armies in Ethiopia would march on to new conquests brought delirious shouts from the crowds in Piazza Venezia, while factory whistles all over the city shrilled.

The day began with a mass attended by the king, Mussolini and a throng of high officials and notables, followed by the review in the Via Della Impero—the "street of empire"—stretching from the Victory monument to the Colosseum.

Two battalions of "Sons of the Wolf," boys between six and eight years, with flashing bayonets on their miniature rifles, led the line of march, impressing bystanders with their military snap.

Then followed naval cadets, Fascist militia, and war veterans, their faces grimly set beneath their steel helmets.

Towards the end came a big degation of the war blind and crippled, many of them obliged to ride in buses.

Loudly Cheered.

They were loudly cheered, but the main applause was reserved for a battalion of engineers and laborers ready to proceed to Africa. They wore pith helmets and carried shovels and picks.

Two huge balloons, one named Prince Umberto, after the crown prince, and the other Ardito V, followed the route of the parade, the latter soaring aloft as soon as it passed Mussolini.

Lines of baby tanks, only shoulder high, such as are effectively being used in Africa, came along followed by big mobile fortresses, in full war camouflage.

When the rear guard of the parade marched by, Mussolini yielded to the cries of the spectators, and fell in behind, riding on to his headquarters.

Roars of the crowd swelled higher and higher outside the palace before he finally emerged to give a brisk salute and one of his characteristic brief war-time speeches.

they declined to be quoted individually before official action is taken, asserted their relief was that it was unfair for an agency created with dollars of American taxpayers to relieve unemployment in this nation, to make its purchases in Germany. Such a course, they argue, will further reduce recovery in America and increase unemployment.

German manufacturers, it was explained, are able to undersell American producers because of extremely low wages paid labor under the Nazi regime and because of government subsidies. Steel destined for exportation is carried as ballast at extremely low rates under orders of the German government, it was pointed out.

Arouse Ire Of Steel Industry

The two awards which aroused the ire of steel and labor leaders were made to the Kloeckner Steel Corporation, an importer of German steel. One was a $20,000 order for sheet piling for use on an approach to the tri-borough bridge in New York and the other a $91,000 order for piling for a bridge at Morehead City, N. C.

As an indication of the extent to which German manufacturers can undersell American producers, it was pointed out the lowest American bid on the Morehead City project was 52 per cent higher than the German bid.

"It is much worse for our government to take such a course than it would be for an individual company," a spokesman for steel companies in this district said. "If Uncle Sam would buy his steel here in America, the money raised by taxation for the PWA would be widely diffused to manufacturers and transporters of iron ore, coal, limestone and other raw materials, thus giving work to thousands of Americans. This is only fair and what we should expect."

Turn Down U. S. Industry

PWA officials in Washington asserted their hands were tied because by law the tariff on steel was fixed at $4 a ton with .80 cents more for fabricated steel. Under the plan accepted by Harold Ikes, PWA chief, bids of American steel companies are accepted if they do not exceed foreign bids by certain percentages fixed on a graduated scale. For orders of $10,000 or more, the differential was 15 per cent.

Among the unsuccessful bidders for the Morehead City contract were the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, U. S. Steel Corporation and Bethlehem Steel Corporation with plants at Bethlehem, Johnstown, Steelton and other Pennsylvania communities.

country ever be prepared against its foes, so that it should not be taken unawares.

He urged the Legion to be steadfast in its efforts in behalf of the disabled veterans and the widows and orphans of the war; in its aims to safeguard democracy; and in its principle to combat the autocracy both of the classes and the masses.

In recalling the 17th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, he urged the citizens to be charitable to the veterans of the World War, because he stated, they had gone through horrors which can scarcely be described.

He stated in conclusion that worldwide peace could only be attained as man was at peace with his neighbor, states with states, and in turn, nations with nations.

FLORENCE WRIGHT
WEDS J. N. McCOWN

CLEVELAND WOMEN TO ATTEND P. R. MEETING

Before an embankment of cibotium ferns, crotons and bamboo, Florence N. Wright, daughter of Mrs. J. Alexander Wright of New Castle, and J. Neely McCown, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. McCown of Mount Lebanon, Pittsburgh, were married Saturday afternoon, November 9, at 4:30 o'clock. The wedding took place in the Mount Lebanon United Presbyterian church, of which Dr. McCown is pastor. He officiated.

Preceding the wedding, E. C. Timmerman, well known Pittsburgh organist, presented a half hour organ program. As the clock reached 4:30, strains of Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" pealed out and the bridal party wended its way toward the altar, where the groom and his best man awaited them. The bride was given away by her brother, G. Edward Wright.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Thomas Hood of Pittsburgh, who acted as matron of honor. Miss Geraldine Turek of New Castle, maid of honor, Miss Virginia McCown of Pittsburgh, and Miss Gertrude Wolf of New Castle. Robert Smith of Charleston, W. Va., acted as best man, and the ushers were Robert Chess of Crafton; Joseph Webb of Cleveland, O.; James Saeger of Wheeling, W. Va., and Rev. William Scott McMunn of Pittsburgh.

For her wedding gown, the bride chose ivory satin and duchess lace, simply designed, with a softly rolled V neck line, long fitted sleeves and a long train. Her tulle veil fell from a halo cap of tulle and lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of ivy roses, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were gowned in light shades of blue velvet, with hats of dubonnet. The matron and maid of honor were attired in dark blue velvet, with accessories to match. All of them carried arm bouquets of Better Times roses. Mrs. John Alexander Wright, mother of the bride, wore black velvet and Mrs. E. C. McCown, mother of the groom, wore violet crepe.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. At the tea tables were Mrs. A. Pearson Furst and Miss Margaret Shaffer, both of New Castle. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. McCown left by plane for Detroit, Mich., where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mr. McCown is affiliated with the Central Air Lines in Pittsburgh. Both he and Mrs. McCown attended Westminster college, and both have a wide circle of friends here. Upon the conclusion of their honeymoon, they will reside in Mount Lebanon.

Armistice Day—March On!

THIS Armistice Day renews our recollections of some millions of young Americans somewhere in France or drilling in canyons who, when the last gun sounded, leaped to their feet, cheering, with a joy equaled only by that of their folks back home. The murderous thing was over. At last and surely they were safe and well.

They felt the moment when the ground—the world—ceased to shake. They had endured all to bring it about. Now they could look forward on life.

The superb thing about the war for those at home was the way our men trudged into the grim battles in spite of all it was sure to mean. War is so completely tangible. Your head and body bow to a definite storm. You seek your enemy and slay him. The eventualities are plain. Any day—an minute—death or a great suffering may strike you. It is the brave acceptance of finalities more than individual acts of heroism that we recall to mind today.

But for the soldier hearing the first armistice bugles the release was from something more than the danger of death and wounds. He could cease the never-ending grapple with fear, wherein he had most greatly overcome.

Now these ex-soldiers are forty to fifty years old. Inevitably, during the next twenty years, they will profoundly affect the welfare of the nation. They cannot help but guide it for good or evil. Their age and experience and natural coalescence will force that upon them.

Their boys and girls will have to take over the kind of life they pass on from this day and its troubles. These are troubles dominated also by fear that can be vanquished only by the old bravery the soldiers learned—fortitude.

We know what the World war veterans cannot forget today. But they are rising from the ranks. What will they remember during the next ten or twenty years?

SOMETHING NEW

We contemplate it with sadness, but it does begin to appear that people may be wrong so often it no longer makes any difference. Most of us had gone along believing, for instance, that a calm and composed motor car driver is a safer person at the wheel than one who is nervous, jumpy or exhausted. It's all wrong.

In New Jersey a refining company has made 3,087 tests in 600,000 miles of driving and has compiled some revolutionary findings. It has discovered, in sum, that the way to become a safe driver is to be nervous and tense. If you are inclined to be complacent, sit on a bent pin or otherwise upset your composure.

We learn something new every day. Fortunately we don't have to accept it all as true.

OVER 700 DID NOT VOTE ON SUNDAY MOVIES

Official count of the vote cast at the election in New Castle last week reveals that 742 persons who cast ballots in the city precincts did not vote on the matter of Sunday movies. The official count shows 8,161 persons voted for Sunday movies and 8,270 against, making a total of 16,431 recorded votes on this issue. However, the tally of all votes cast shows that 17,173 persons visited the polls and dropped their ballots in the boxes.

Either, the more than seven hundred citizens did not vote on the Sunday movies question as neutrals, accidentally missed the ballot on the question, or for some other reason neglected to voice their opinion in this referendum.

Enough voters failed to register their convictions on this issue to have changed the entire result, or to have made the outcome much more decisive.

Most every election result shows a similar situation, enough voters who visit the polls neglecting to mark their ballots on this or that contest, to be a really decisive factor in the result.

EXTREMELY INTERESTING

Whatever the presidential trials may recently have been at the white house, on the South Seas, or at Hyde Park they have not been sufficient to deprive Mr. Roosevelt of the sense of humor which, in addition to his genial nature, may be the inspiration for the well-known Roosevelt smile. It is still there in full force when he asserts that he has found "extremely interesting" the replies of the clergy to his letters asking its members for their counsel and advice.

Such letters as have been given out for publication by certain of the clergymen themselves were, at the very least, "extremely interesting." Thus the average reader may understand why Mr. Roosevelt confined his comment upon them to two words, susceptible to wide interpretation.

One point the president may yet explain—and likely will be asked to explain as the campaign warms up—is what inspired this political move in the first place. Whatever it was, his invitation certainly provided an opportunity, which might otherwise have been lacking, for certain of the gentlemen of the cloth to express themselves in terms which were positive and—"extremely interesting."

GOOD LOOKING

Secretary Morgenthau may not be able quite to prove his assertion that the new one-dollar bill shortly to be issued will be the "handsomest ever." Handsome, we admit, but the point is, will it be the handsomest? Any bill put out by the government and properly signed by the proper officials is handsome. But minor financial circles, in which we move exclusively, will debate whether any one dollar can be the "handsomest."

Nearly everyone we ever heard of will contend that a one-dollar bill is handsome. Even a dime is good-looking and a nickel is not to be sneered at. But in the mind attuned to the practicalities of life and probably short on art, a five-dollar bill is just five times as handsome as a one-dollar bill, no matter how disappointed the engraver may be with his product. It is a matter of progressiveness, and those unusual persons who claim to have seen them assure us there can be no doubt about it; that the one-thousand-dollar bill is the one and only "handsomest ever," and that by and large it will retain its superiority in the realm of beauty no matter what flights of fancy may be taken with the one-dollar bill.

How To Choke A Cat.
The Blue Nile.
Requesting Death.
Legs, Not Brains.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

"MORE WAYS OF KILLING a cat than choking it to death with butter." The federal court says the Rayburn-Wheeler utility bill is unconstitutional. Congressman Sam Rayburn promises "if the Supreme Court throws out the act, Congress will tax the holding companies out of existence."

That is a new thought: the power of taxation can be more destructive than any power of regulation. "All right, go ahead and make it, but we shall take it away from you," is a convincing argument.

USUAL NEWS from Ethiopia. Three thousand rebels in the city of Gorahai. Italian planes bombed the place, the 3,000 left.

England will not like to hear that Mussolini's men are entering the Lake Tana region.

The Blue Nile, supposed by the ancients to come down from Heaven to run through Egypt, starts in Lake Tana. England needs that water for irrigation in Sudan and Egypt, which are expected to supply cotton that the United States no longer exports under our "plowing under" system.

IN ADDIS ABABA, where the emperor lives, presently to depart, and make good his promise to "shed my blood with you on the battle field", the first Italian plane has appeared with a disagreeable roar. It may persuade the Ethiopian ruler that the time has come for him to go to the front, if he can find it.

NATIVES OF THE important city of Makale were intensely interested in the first Italian airplane landing there, two hours after the city was taken. Many of the Coptic clergy, other notables, and chiefs, presented themselves before the Italian commander, to make, acts of submission. The roaring airplane even more than machine guns and tanks to disturb the Ethiopian morale. "Formerly", they say, "only good things came down from Heaven. Now look comes".

OF MANY legal documents prepared since Hammurabi issued the first written laws, most curious is one prepared in England, where a law is proposed authorizing a committee of doctors to put to death incurable patients suffering intense pain. Under this new law the sufferer would sign a document be-giving:

"I am — years of age, suffering from a disease involving severe pain which I am informed, is of an incurable and fatal character."

"I have consulted my nearest relatives and have to the best of my ability, set my affairs in order."

He then proceeds to request permission to have his doctor put him to death, painlessly. Greeks and Romans considered suicide a matter of personal taste, under some cases, heroic. Christianity forbids it, England probably will not legalize it. Among primitive people, as Reclus tells you in his "Man and the Earth", it was customary to put incurable patients suffering intense pain to death, and sometimes to eat them, when they were no longer useful otherwise, and the old people offered no serious objection.

Vast Ethiopian Army Is Massed

Ethiopian Army Getting Set At Amba Alagi For First Major Battle

(International News Service) ASMARA, Nov. 11.—Plots of Italian scout planes returning here from a survey of the northern front today said they had definitely sighted a vast Ethiopian army massed just south of Amba Alagi.

Amba Alagi, 40 miles south of Makale, is the next objective of the northern Italian army.

Presumably, the Ethiopians were getting set for the first major battle of the war.

It was announced here the Italian push on the southern front was being pressed with utmost energy, despite the difficulties caused by the lowness of the country being traversed. Native Dubat troops were reported to have marched 150 miles in three days.

that forehead is a bore. Human interest is still in legs and arms; it will reach the brain later, perhaps in 10,000 years.

IT IS GOOD NEWS, that the piano industry, like the automobile industry, is enjoying a boom. Production at this time is 100 per cent ahead of 1932.

Children should not merely listen to music, although that is most important education. As Henry Ford says, they should actually DO something, obedient to the text, "but be ye doers of the Word, and not hearers only." Lessons on the piano and other musical instruments develop co-operation of mind, nerves and muscle, lacking in too many moderns. That 1,500,000 children are taking piano lessons in the United States is good news.

HOPING FOR the brilliant British flier, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, is virtually abandoned. Careful search by planes and ships indicates that his plane, in flames, went down among the sharks in the Bay of Bengal.

At the same time comes news that another Australian flier, H. F. Broadbent, has broken by seven hours, Kingsford-Smith's world record from England to Australia. Such is the history of men; one comes, sets his mark high, another comes, and sets his higher. Men disappear, civilization and science advance.

Invite Public To Band Concert

First Public Concert Of American Legion Junior Band Will Be Given

NO ADMISSION TO BE CHARGED

Commander James E. Moorhead and members of the committee in charge of the American Legion Junior band, today issued a general invitation to the public to attend the concert which will be given in the Senior high school this evening.

This will be the first time the band has staged a public concert and while they probably have been heard on several occasions in parades, this will be the first concert.

The band, under the leadership of Director Joe F. Replique, has been preparing for this occasion for several months and have added several elaborate selections to their repertoire.

FRANK WARNING IS GIVEN NATION OF WORLD PERIL

cerned," declared the president as he gazed out over the thousands of graves of those who died in the "war to end wars."

Adequate Defense

"Defense against aggression by others—adequate defense on land, on sea and in air—is our accepted policy; and the measure of that defense is and will be solely the amount necessary to safeguard us against the armaments of others. The more greatly they decrease their armaments, the more quickly and surely shall we decrease ours."

In making this plain announcement that America will keep pace in any international armament race, the president stated further:

"While we cannot and must not hide our concern for grave world dangers, and while at the same time we cannot build walls around ourselves and hide our heads in the sand, we must go forward with all our strength to stress and to strive for international peace."

It was a gloomy picture of world affairs that the chief executive painted on this seventeenth anniversary of the end of the World War. Speaking within a stone's throw of the unknown soldier's tomb in the beautiful marble amphitheatre, he declared:

Dangers Ahead

"I would not be frank with you if I did not tell you that the dangers that confront the future of mankind as a whole are greater to the world and therefore to us than the dangers which confront the people of the United States by and in themselves alone."

"Jealousies between nations continue; armaments increase; national ambitions that disturb the world's peace are thrust forward. Most serious of all, international confidence in the sacredness of international contracts is on the wane."

As a brighter note, the president revealed that his conversations last week with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, of Canada, looking forward to a reciprocal trade agreement had resulted in "a definite agreement which will eliminate disagreements and unreasonable restrictions."

Power Of Good Example

"The power of good example is the strongest force in the world," asserted the executive in commenting on the negotiations with Canada. "It surpasses preachers; it excels good resolutions; it is better than agreements unfulfilled."

But it was upon the danger of another world conflagration that Mr. Roosevelt dwelt chiefly and his words were measured and solemn.

"The memory of our hopes and 1917 and 1918 dies with the death of those of us who took part," he said. "It is, therefore, your sacred obligation and mine, by conscious effort to pass that memory on to succeeding generations. A new generation, even in its cradle or still unborn, is coming to the fore. The children in our schools, the young men and women passing through our colleges into productive life have, unlike us, no direct knowledge of the meaning of war. They are not immune to the glamour of war, to the opportunities to escape from the drabness and worry of hard times at home in the glory and heroism of the arms factory and the battlefield. Fortunately, there is evidence on every hand that the youth of America, as a whole, is not trapped by that delusion. They know that elation and prosperity which may come from a new war must lead for those who survive it—to economic and social collapse more sweeping than any we have experienced in the past."

HUNTER ARRESTED FOR NOT HAVING LICENSE

Zach Moore, colored, 520 Haymon street, Youngstown, O., was arrested by Deputy Game Warden Roy Wylam Saturday on a charge of hunting in Pulaski township, this county, without a license. He is said to have had a license in his possession, but it belonged to another party. He was brought before Alderman L. C. Mantz, who fined him $40 and costs. In default of fine he was committed to the Lawrence county jail for 45 days. He had a single-barreled shotgun, which is in possession of the alderman.

squad composed of Sergeant Palmer and Privates Dilley, Linton, Greenham, Quinn and Rankin, fired a volley, and taps was blown by Charles Marshall, World war veteran.

The ceremony at the Carnegie auditorium was brief but fitting. Coroner Orville Potter presided and introduced Rev. Father Joseph A. Doerr, pastor of St. Joseph's church, who pronounced the invocation. The American Legion Junior band played one verse of America, in which the audience joined.

The Terrace Avenue Harmonica band, nattily dressed in red and white, under the direction of Miss Emma Gibbons, assisted by Miss Helen Green, played a number of selections current during the World war, ending with the Star Spangled Banner.

Address By Dr. McIlvaine

Concluding the program was the address of Rev. John J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, a veteran of the World war.

He opened his address by quoting the 26th verse of the second chapter of second Samuel, "Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour forever? Knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end? How long shall it be then, ere thou bid the people return from following after their brethren?"

"Abner spoke of a yearning for peace," he stated. "It is representative of the cry of the veterans today, of millions of American men, who were not afraid to die; whose hearts are in revolt against the destruction of war.

"We are coming to the conclusion that civilization must end war or war will end civilization. The sword devours, it never produces.

These men in uniform here could tell you of the awful destruction wrought during the World War, if they would open up.

"Sherman estimated that his little army, in its march to the sea, caused destruction of three hundred million dollars. Experts say the World War cost nine millions of dollars an hour, equal to $20,000 per hour for every hour since Christ was born. It cost ten millions of soldiers' lives, three millions missing, 20 millions wounded, 13 millions of dead civilians, five millions of widows and nine millions of orphans.

Takes Finest Of Men

"War takes the finest of men, those with no physical or moral taint, and puts them in the front line trenches. The very first on the casualty list are the young men. Civil War generals said the battle of Gettysburg was fought by youths of high school age.

"War destroys morality. The moral sag which the war caused worries these men of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The cry from those who know war is not for more wars but for peace. They are willing to fight again to protect our country, but they plead for peace, and ask you to join them in this effort.

"We went into the World War in the belief that it was a war to end war. We owe it to them to think, work and fight for peace in order that this scourge shall not come again.

"When religion can bring home to man the fact that there is one God, that we are brethren, regardless of our nationality, then war shall cease. It is coming, the world over, when men shall recognize this fact; God is marching on for peace."

The service closed with the singing of the national anthem led by the Legion junior band.

War Veterans March

While the parade was not as large as it could have been, there were a great number of World War veterans in line, together with Spanish American War, fraternal organizations, the auxiliaries, and Sons of the American Legion.

The procession was headed by the members of Troop F, 103rd cavalry, PNG, mounted on their horses, followed by the American Legion Junior Band, and the World War veterans.

Two cars bore the Gold Star Mothers, followed by a car containing Commander D. M. Clark, one of the few survivors of the Civil War, who also occupied a place of honor on the platform at the auditorium. Riding with him was L. B. McAnaney, World War veteran, who just recently underwent an operation in the hospital.

ARMISTICE DAY FOREBODING IN OLD WORLD

Solemnity In Day's Program

Britain's Requiem Centers At Whitehall — King Does Not Attend

PRINCE OF WALES SHARES CEREMONY

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 11.—With two nations actually at war, 50 nations aligned against Italy in economic war, Britain and Italy at loggerheads over fleet and troop concentrations, and Japan threatening military action in Northern China, the old world today celebrated its 17th Armistice Day and honored its ten million war dead with greater solemnity and foreboding than ever before.

Britain's requiem centered in Whitehall, where a vast concourse of those who lost relatives in the war gathered while the Duke of York, representing King George, laid a simple wreath on the cenotaph.

King Did Not Attend

King George again did not attend the ceremony, because his physicians advised him not to risk a chill in the unsettled weather. The Duke of Kent was with his brother, and Queen Mary looked on from a balcony. The Prince of Wales officiated at a ceremony in Edinburgh.

But diplomats, only a few steps away in Downing street and the foreign office, continued with no material progress their efforts to tension in the Mediterranean, and, secondarily, to bring about peace in Ethiopia.

British government was said to have abandoned all hope that the League of Nations could avert application of sanctions against Italy one week from today, and concentrated on attempts to minimize the precarious situation in the Mediterranean.

Britain has therefore instructed Sir Eric Drummond, Rome ambassador, to promise Premier Mussolini that, if Italy pledges herself to withdraw one more division from the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, Britain will first reduce her naval strength in the Mediterranean.

Today the long curved sweep of Whitehall, from Trafalgar Square to the House of Parliament, was a mass of bowed humanity, all eyes on the cenotaph, around which were squares of guardsmen and the clergy, including the archbishop of Canterbury.

As nearby Big Ben boomed 11, an awful silence fell over the concourse.

Bus drivers even stopped their motors for one minute. Then the Duke of Kent stepped forward, placed the King's wreath, and the crowd moved off, after a prayer by the archbishop.

KNOCK OUT COLDS IN FIRST ROUND

Give Colds No Chance to Wear You Down and Put You on Your Back!

Don't daily with a cold! It may end seriously—in the form of flu or pneumonia.

When a cold strikes, strike back with redoubled force. Depend on no makeshift remedies.

A cold calls for a cold treatment, not a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.

A cold also calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Make Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine your treatment and you have hit a cold a body blow.

Bromo Quinine is effective because it is a cold tablet made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else. It routs colds quickly because it is internal treatment, fourfold in effect.

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold. Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital measure.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

Be wise and play safe! At the first sign of a cold go right to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets at once, two every four hours.

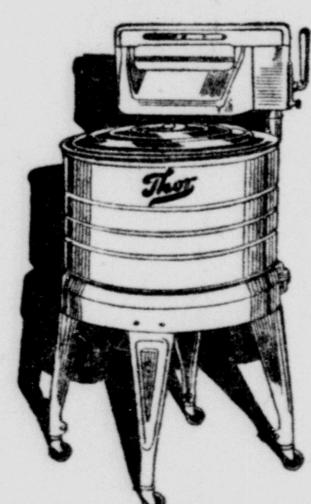

In 24 hours, if taken promptly, Bromo Quinine will often check a cold.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. When you ask for it, insist upon getting what you ask for. The few pennies cost may save you a lot of worry and money.

First, it opens the bowels, an

ARMISTICE DAY

New Castle News,

To the Editor.

Dear Sir:

Armistice Day here again, November 11, brings to all of us a new sense of the meaning of war.

In many of the parades and celebrations of the day we will be shown the glories and wonders of war, but what about peace? What about the glories and wonders of peace? What can our people do to set forth the meaning of peace? Are we to go on forever displaying only the trappings and the sentiment of war?

Armistice Day is now a sacred day to multitudes because it brought peace to the world. Should we not do something to use it in such a way that it will help to preserve peace. Peace was a glorious thing for us to celebrate on November 11, 1918. Is not a glorious thing to celebrate November 11 this year. Today we are faced with a world preparing for war. Our nation is steadily increasing its military expenditures and following policies which threaten to plunge us of this world into war.

But looking toward Armistice Day this year we would return to that first emphasis on peace. We feel the need for a constructive and dramatic demonstration against the rising war budget of our own nation. "I am for peace but when I am for peace but when they speak they are for war" — Psalm 120:7.

The World War consisted of the central powers and the allies. The central powers were Germany, Austria, Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria. The allies were United States, Great Britain, Canada, India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, France, Russia, Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro, Japan, Italy, Roumania, Portugal, Cuba, Panama, Greece, Siberia and Haiti. "He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth. He breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder. He burneth the chariot in the fire" — Psalm 46:9.

The Congressional Record shows just what the World War cost us in money and men without a single dollar or acre of land from the millions and millions of lost divided at the treaty of Versailles. The best statistics obtainable. The World War cost 30,000,000 lives and $400,000,000,000. With that amount we could have built a $2,500 house

NEW CASTLE DEFEATS MARTINS FERRY 26-18

DeCaprio, Engs, Bennett Star In Schoolboy Battle

Game Proves To Be Best of Season; Seven Touchdowns Made; Thrills Galore For Crowd of Close to 10,000; DeCaprio Scores Twice For New Castle; Robert "Flash" Engs Scores On 70 Yard Dash; Martins Ferry Sends Fighting Team To New Castle; Vicious Tackling By Linemen; Toscano And Jackson Prove Fine Ends.

OUT on the turf of Taggart Stadium Saturday afternoon, two great high school football machines clashed. In the stands close to 10,000 football loving fans sat spellbound and thrilled as the score see-sawed back and forth. Finally out of the panorama, Domenick "Gabby" DeCaprio knifed through from the 10-yard line to score the final New Castle High "Red Hurricane" touchdown. New Castle won the game 26 to 18. The "Purple Riders" of Martins Ferry waged a brilliant battle, but were unable to match the cunning of the Bridenbaughmen.

It was the highlight of the 1935 season at Taggart Stadium. Never has there been such a epidemic of scoring. Seldom has a more colorful game been played here. The stadium was dressed up for the occasion in glowing colors of both schools. The teams were dressed to the height of football perfection. New Castle High with flaming red jerseys and pants. Martins Ferry with gleaming purple jerseys. The football displayed by these two fine teams left nothing to be desired in the hearts of the fans who sat under a warm November sun for the biggest part of the game. The weather was perfect, the game was perfect. The crowd was gratifying.

A checkup of the figures show that New Castle made 10 first downs to eight for the Martins Ferry team. In forward passing the "Red Hurricanes" had the best average making three out of four, one for a touchdown. The "Purple Riders" tried 13 passes and made good six of them, two for touchdowns.

Even in defeat the Martins Ferry High fans had plenty of words of praise for the "Red Hurricane".

Visitors Score Early

The game was hardly two or three minutes old when the New Castle fans groaned as Martins Ferry High, after taking a punt from Mumford on the 50-yard line began a series of line-bucks and forward passes that ended only over the goal line when Johnnie Bennett, one of the brightest stars of the game, flipped a forward to Williams a sub-halfback and Martins Ferry took the lead. It was a steady march down the field. Bennett failed to plunge.

Martins Ferry High kicked off to Engs and the colored boy returned the ball from the 20 to 35 yard line before being brought down by a hard tackle. DeCaprio broke away and made 11 yards for a first down. Donegan ripped through tackle and picked up 20 yards for another first down.

Mumford replaced Cabas after the South Side boy had lost eight yards on an attempted pass. Engs broke away and picked up 26 yards to the Martins Ferry 25 yard line for another first down. Donegan ran 13 yards to the 3-yard line before being knocked out of bounds by Bennett, who was hurt on the play. DeCaprio picked up two yards to the one yard mark and Engs tried the line and failed to gain.

DeCaprio slashed through for the first New Castle touchdown from the 1-yard mark. The score was tied. Harry "Kaiser" Toscano stepped back and booted the ball squarely between the cross-bars giving

Engs Races 70 Yards To Score

At the start of the second period Bennett booted to New Castle on the New Castle 35 yard line. Several plays at the line failed and Mumford booted to the "Purple Riders".

On the first play Bennett quick-kicked back to New Castle and Engs gathered the ball into his arms on the 30-yard line and waited for his interference to form, then he was away like a scared rabbit for the goal line 70 yards down the field. Engs raced through a sea of purple jerseys and finally got into the clear. He outdistanced his field and had clear sailing for the final 30 yards of his journey to the goal line. The New Castle stands went wild. Toscano missed the extra-point. New Castle had the lead at 13 to 6. Leroy Cox was sent in for the fleet-footed Engs after the touchdown. The reception for Engs was thunderous.

Mumford booted off for New Castle and the ball was taken by Bennett who went to the 39-yard line.

Williams and Bennett picked up a first down. Bennett pointed to Mumford on the 22-yard line. New Castle drew a 15-yard penalty.

Mumford booted back to the Ohioans on the 50 yard line. Here the Martins Ferry boys began another march down the field that ended with Bennett passing to Joseph the right end for a touchdown from the New Castle 12-yard line.

Groza tried the conversion but it was blocked by Vargo the New Castle center. New Castle 13-Martins Ferry 12. The half ended in a few minutes with Martins Ferry starting another drive down the field.

Second Half Opens

Mumford booted off for New Castle to start the third period.

New Castle advanced to the 22-yard line when a bad pass from center gave Martins Ferry the ball on the New Castle 18-yard line. Bennett passed to Davis and he was brought down on the two-yard line. Bennett cracked the line and made a yard and then on the next try went over for the third Martins Ferry touchdown. More clanging of bells and cheers from the Martins Ferry section. The try for an extra-point

State Will Play Penn Saturday

Contest Will Take Place At Philadelphia—See Tough Game

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 11.—With the exception of the football team which will close its 1935 campaign against Bucknell next week all Nittany Lion sports teams will end their seasons this Saturday.

The Lion soccer team after compiling one of the finest records ever made by a Penn State team, travels to Annapolis with two Nittany freshman squads, all to end their dual engagements for the season.

The varsity boaters meet the Midshipmen soccermen and the Lion Cub face Navy Plebe teams in football and cross country.

In their first five games this year Penn State's soccer team scored 19 goals and held its opponents scoreless. Coach Bill Jeffrey's eleven has defeated Gettysburg, Temple, Lafayette, Army and Syracuse.

The Nittany Lion football team will invade the home field of the University of Pennsylvania this week, with the success of the local season depending upon the result of the game. State annually plays its best game on Franklin field, and this season, with a powerful forward wall, the blue and white eleven has high hopes for victory.

The State grididers should be well keyed up for the Quaker encounter. Most of the varsity line were members of the team which lost to Penn last fall by a fourth period field goal. Cherubino, center; Fry and Smith, ends; Schuyler and Captain Weber, tackles, and Barth, guard, were all members of the starting forward wall a year ago. In the backfield, Tommy Silvano, fullback, was the leading cog in the State attack.

Frank O'Hora, quarterback, who was injured last week in scrimmage and kept out of the Villanova game, is expected to be in shape for the Quaker encounter.

Wabash Bears Remain In Independent Tourney Championship Race

Wabash Bears football team of the Seventh Ward remained in the independent football elimination tourney Sunday afternoon at Raytown field by toppling a hard fighting New Castle All-Stars team 18 to 6. The game was played on a muddy field before a crowd of 500 fans.

Rocco Tomalello and Albert "Blackie" Adamo scored all of the points for the Wabash Bears, the former scoring on two forward passes and Adamo scoring after taking a pass from Copple and racing 20 yards. Adamo and Tomalello are former New Castle High stars.

He threw a pass to Thomas for the touchdown made by the All-Stars in the final period.

Neither team was able to score an extra point due to the slippery condition of the ball. Every lineman on the Wabash team played a strong game, with Russo and A. Raney outstanding. L. Picutti thrillingly fanned with a 50 yard run but failed to score.

LOWELLVILLE, O., Nov. 11.—Lowellville high school football team defeated Bessemer high team here Saturday afternoon 14 to 6 in a well played and hard fought engagement.

The Lawrence county champions were unable to break through the big Lowellville line, and scored on a pass thrown by Marshall to Poushey late in the fourth and final period.

Lowellville scored in the first period of the battle with the Ohioans marching down the field from their own 30-yard line in a sustained drive of 64 yards until the 7-yard line was reached and then DeLucia plunged over for the first score. DeLucia scored the second touchdown for Lowellville mid-way of the third period after a drive of 60 yards down the field from the Lowellville 40-yard mark. Tamburine had a big part in the march, ripping off gains of 21 yards and 13 yards on two sweeping end run plays.

Bessemer had a bit of tough luck in the second period when Marshall took a punt from Tarveline and raced through the whole Lowellville team from the Bessemer 40 and scored, but Bessemer was offside on the play and the kick was called off.

Could Improve Storm Warnings

Long-Range Weather Forecaster Says Weather Bureau Lacks Facilities

WOULD MAKE USE OF NAVY VESSELS

Central Press Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—"Tropical hurricanes," says Herbert Janvrin Browne, the long-distance weather forecaster, "have not been more numerous than usual this year, but the paths they have followed have made them more than usually destructive."

"If a storm dissipates itself at sea or sweeps only a few uninhabited islands it isn't noticed."

"This season's tempests have stricken settlements and cities."

WHERE THEY ORIGINATE

"Accurate advance warnings," continued the forecaster, who furnishes many large corporations with their meteorological information, "would permit precautions to be taken which would greatly reduce their damaging effects."

"Such warnings are perfectly possible to be provided."

"Our southeastern hurricanes originate in the vicinity of the Cape Verde Islands and travel westward toward the Caribbean, Porto Rico, Cuba, the southern end of Florida and into the Gulf of Mexico."

"That is their general direction, but a given storm's course isn't exactly foreseeable. It may hit the mainland 100 miles up the Florida coast. It may only sideswipe Key West. It may miss even the Florida keys and spend its force, as one did, as far into the gulf as Galveston."

WEATHER BUREAU UNEXPECTED

"What we need, for safety's sake," went on the meteorologist, "is to follow the path of each of these giant whirls, as nearly as possible from the point of its origin to its destination."

The weather bureau hasn't the facilities to do this.

It has 58 land stations in the danger zone, but each station is dependent upon the advice it receives from casual ships at sea concerning a storm's approach.

"It approaches, too, from a little navigated part of the ocean. Ships are few. Moreover, almost invariably they are merchant craft which, very properly, are trying to keep clear of the tempest's path. They are 100 miles away from its center, maybe. They don't know how it is traveling. The weather station has no option but to guess at its course. Naturally it can't guess with any certainty."

A SUGGESTION

"Now, the government," proceeded Forecaster Browne (who, incidentally, is a first-class deep-sea sailor, with a captain's certificate), "has any number of vessels which are perfectly adapted to meet this emergency."

"We have destroyers no end. Make them earn their living."

"We have coast guard boats."

"They have stations at the Virgin Islands, Cuban and Portorican ports, within easy steaming of the Cape Verdes, where the hurricanes originate."

"Upon first notice of an approaching storm center, why not dispatch a fast destroyer, to keep up with that storm?—and give several days' advance notice of its progress?"

EASY TO KEEP UP WITH

"An ocean cyclone," said the long-distance forecaster, "may whirl at the rate of 100 miles an hour or more, but it progresses at the rate of only 10 or 12 or, at the limit, 14 miles hourly."

"A 25-mile-an-hour destroyer can keep ahead of it or keep immediately behind it or run rings around it, remaining in touch with land by wireless."

"As a matter of fact, a destroyer or a coast guard boat can push straight through the eye of a storm. It would be rough going, but it is imaginable."

TYPHOONS ARE WORSE

Storms like ours originate on the Mexican west coast and break on the Chinese and Japanese coasts as typhoons.

They are worse than Florida's, Forecaster Browne says—because they have a greater range of ocean within which to gain impetus.

However, he considers that China's and Japan's funeral.
